Disappointed Suitor Kills One, Wounds 2

Redwood City, Cal., March 10. —(UP)—A suicide guard today placed on a "disappointed suitor" who critically wounded his former fiancée, killed her mother, and shot the girl's twin sister in the hand.

Kermit O. Frazier, 34, said that the shootings occurred accidentally. He fought with the women, but police reported that his .38 revolver, which was fired six times, must have been reloaded during the scuffle.

Frazier was charged with murdering Mary L. Thompson in the exclusive Alhambra home of another daughter, Mrs. E. J. Gottula.

Doris Thompson, 29, his former fiancée, was in critical condition, and her sister, Carl, was treated at a hospital for the hand injury.

Frazier said he went to the home to try to "make up" with Miss Thompson. However he told Mrs. Thompson after arriving that he intended to kill himself.

The sister said they heard Frazier arguing with their mother in another room, and rushed into the hallway when they heard a shot. Mrs. Gottula, who was in the room at the time, called police.

Frazier was captured while running down a nearby street. He said he and Miss Thompson were engaged, but that she later "jilted" him.

All the women jumped on me as I entered the hallway, and in the scuffle the gun went off," he said.

Frazier, who now lives in Oakland, Cal., is a credit manager for the Firestone Tire Co. He said he formerly was a city manager in Winston Salem, N. C.

Train Robbery Not New in America

Kansas City, March 10. —(AP)—Train robberies long have been a dramatic chapter in the railroads' storied past.

Yesterday's robbery of a Baltimore and Ohio train near Martinsburg, W. Va., was just one in a long string of railroad holdups that began as far back as 1866.

Jesse James probably was the best known train robber. The Missouri outlaw and his followers picked up $3,000 in their first try in 1873. But they missed a train carrying $75,000 in gold on the same line a few hours later.

One year they went through a train at Gadsden, Mo. They took $2,000 from the passengers, $1,000 from the safe, and another $2,000 from the mail.

Three men broke into an express car on a run between New York and Boston and made off with cash, bonds, and jewelry valued at $700,000.

Caught later, they implicated seven others, including the messenger who rode the car.

As recently as 1937, two waiters, dressed as cowboys and firing revolvers, failed in attempting to rob passengers of a train speeding across the New Mexico desert.

One of the men smashed a passenger's watch with pistol fire and a shot grazed another passenger's clothing. But trainmen and other passengers tripped the two in the aisle, overpowered them, and bound them to the coach seats. They hauled the pair into Denning, a small town, and turned them over to authorities.

Two attempts in California were more successful.

Good Foster Parents
In Perria, Ill., when a nest of baby robins had to be moved from a boxcar, they were placed close beside another nest and the owners of the second nest fed and raised both broods.

U. S. Grand Jury Indicts Justice Dept. Worker

New York, March 10. —(UP)—A federal grand jury today indicted Judith Coplon, department of justice employee, and Valentine A. Gubichev, Russian attaché at the United Nations secretariat, for conspiracy to commit espionage.

The indictment was voted after the grand jury had heard FBI agents who arrested the two Friday night.

Miss Coplon, a Brooklyn girl who worked as an analyst in the internal security division of the justice department in Washington, and Gubichev, were seized by G-men as they entered a clandestine meeting in New York.

The two face more than 30 years in jail if they are convicted on the four-count indictment.

The first count charges that for an undetected length of time prior to last Jan. 1, Miss Coplon and Gubichev conspired to obstruct the functions of the department of justice and the FBI, impairing the justice department of the right "to the honest, efficient and faithful services" of Miss Coplon.

The first count also charges that Miss Coplon, with the purpose of obtaining national defense information and the intent that the information be used to the injury of the United States "and to the advantage of a foreign power," copied or took documents and notes relating to national defense.

She was charged also with taking documents containing intelligence information relating to espionage and counter-espionage in the United States.

Gubichev was accused, in the first count, of obtaining from Miss Coplon national defense secrets, and that they had been obtained by her "violation of law."

The first count also generally accused Miss Coplon of obtaining the secrets to "willfully communicate" them to persons not entitled to receive them.

Civilian Is Guilty Rules Army Court

Tokyo, March 10. —(UP)—An army court martial today found a civilian employee of the Allied occupation headquarters guilty of assault and using abusive language against a U. S. army lieutenant colonel.

The decision was handed down despite the efforts of defense attorney Frank O'Neill of Boston.

He told the court that if President Truman can call another American a "S. O. B." and get away with it—so can anyone under military law.

The trial was the result of charges brought by Lt. Col. John J. Jimenson, of Pres. Mass., claiming that civilian employee George Angell of West Medford, Mass., had violated military laws when he "punched him" during a traffic dispute, and then said: "You may be a lieutenant colonel, but you're just a pile of horse manure to me."

O'Neill argued before the military court that this phrase was standard American language. He asked that the abusive language charged be dropped.

"If it is not an offense for Harry Truman to call another American a 'S. O. B.' then it is not an offense over here," O'Neill added.

Angell, a 58-year-old fire prevention expert, is a former lieutenant colonel himself and a sometime All-American football star. He told the court he once broke Dwight Eisenhower's leg in a game against a West Point team on which he was a player.

The traffic dispute which touched off the "misunderstanding" was described by Angell as a "case of two mules on a bridge."

Both men maintained the other was on the wrong side of the street and the other was in the way. When both refused to budge on meeting, Angell said he got out of his sedan and spoke to the colonel who was driving a jeep.

Jimenson, about Angell's age but smaller, said the civilian then referred to the "barney commedity" and without cause "punched him."

Angell denied he struck the colonel. He admitted, however, he was irritated by Jimenson's repeated announcements that "I am a lieutenant colonel in the United States' army. Get out of my way."

Leonard P. Higasson, 56, a resident of Olan, died yesterday of a heart attack in Hot Springs. He had been a patient in the Army Navy General Hospital since December.

Mr. Higasson had lived in Hempstead practically all his life and at one time was in business at Olan. He is survived by his wife, 2 sons, James of Kansas, Billy of Olan, three brothers, Luther, Harold and T. M. Higasson of Hope, two sisters, Mrs. Norman Taylor of Mooky Mound and Mrs. Elston Messer of Washington.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday. Burial will be in St. Paul Cemetery.

Damaging Snows Cover South, Central States

By The Associated Press

Late winter storms and floods left damaging blows over southern and central states today.

At least three persons were killed, some 40 others injured and hundreds still homeless from the battering by weather's elements.

Property damage was widespread. Roadways which ripped through 6 southern states killed one school girl and injured 40 persons.

The worst blinding snow storm of the winter season struck the Missouri Ozarks yesterday. Traffic was snarled on all roads and there were scores of accidents. At least two persons were killed.

High waters still plagued areas in Nebraska, Montana and Iowa. But a cold snap checked, at least temporarily, the flow of flood waters. Many, however, remained homeless.

Snow and rain fell over many areas in the South, Midwest and Plains States. Temperatures dropped to below zero in parts of Montana, the Dakotas, Minnesota and Michigan. Pembina, N. D., reported a low of -10 and the mercury dipped to -8 at Miles City, Mont.

Below freezing weather, extended from the Oklahoma-Texas panhandle across most of the central states and northward to eastern Washington.

A heavy band of snow fell from Springfield, Mo., northeastward to St. Louis and there were fairly heavy falls in parts of southern Illinois and Indiana. Light snow fell today in parts of the Dakotas, Wyoming and Nebraska and there was rain or snow in areas of California, Oregon and Nevada.

Below-freezing weather extended from the Oklahoma-Texas panhandle across most of the central states and northward to eastern Washington.

Because the train's fireman was "shanghaied" and taken to the tavern, city police said it seemed fairly certain the train bandits also looted the neighborhood.

The fireman, R. D. Purdie of Baltimore, later fled the tavern and returned to his home.

The B. and O. said it had reports of two men boarding the train at Washington with tickets from Miami, Fla., to Youngstown, Ohio.

Stunned passengers told in graphic words how they were faced with an unbelievable situation and how the men ranged from the diesel locomotive through the coaches and a Pullman — stealing what they could find.

Negro chieftain suffered a minor injury when a bullet was fired through the glass of a train door.

Rebecca Davis, Negro, of Detroit, received head injuries when a bandit was gun-whipped by one of the trainmen.

Others also were treated by a physician on the train.

Officers in 3 States Search for Robbers Who Held Up Train Jesse James Style

Martinsburg, W. Va., March 10. —(AP)—A brazen gun-slugging train robbery executed with all the trappings of frontier days — and police of three states on the prowl today.

References to the days of Jesse James were frequent as officers pieced together an account of how the Baltimore and Ohio's west-bound Ambassador was stopped and the passengers terrorized last night.

Shots were fired while two men ranged the coaches of the fast train.

Exactly how many shots was not determined, but enough to make the shocked passengers certain the bandits meant business.

One of the worst train robberies of the Twentieth century caused a loss of more than $1,000 to passengers and crew, and resulted in slight injury.

Road blocks were set up around West Virginia's jutting eastern panhandle by men from Maryland, Virginia, and West Virginia.

Bloodhounds came in from Virginia on the chance the daring bandits were hiding somewhere in the hills. They picked up no trail.

Two stolen cars apparently figured in the getaway. Both were found abandoned.

Sgt. W. W. Murphy of the West Virginia state police ordered a thorough search of the countryside beginning at dawn.

He said descriptions of the men were that one was between 22 and 25 years old, six feet tall, with a mustache and wearing a light D overcoat. The other was described as between 22 and 25, five feet eight inches tall and wearing a sports shirt.

Sgt. W. W. Rousch said some witnesses indicated the men had been drinking.

The train was enroute from Baltimore to Detroit.

For several hours after the excitement held up there was some confusion as to how many robbers there were.

Passengers and others were certain there were only two.

The Baltimore and Ohio could only report of two.

But a tavern robbery which occurred nearby soon after the holdup caused police to spend some time looking for four. They more or less abandoned that theory later.

Because the train's fireman was "shanghaied" and taken to the tavern, city police said it seemed fairly certain the train bandits also looted the neighborhood.

The fireman, R. D. Purdie of Baltimore, later fled the tavern and returned to his home.

The B. and O. said it had reports of two men boarding the train at Washington with tickets from Miami, Fla., to Youngstown, Ohio.

Stunned passengers told in graphic words how they were faced with an unbelievable situation and how the men ranged from the diesel locomotive through the coaches and a Pullman — stealing what they could find.

Spends Life Trying to Get Inside Heads of Tigers and They Sometimes Try to Help

By HAL BOYLE
North Miami, Fla. —(AP)—There is a man here who has spent most of his life trying to get inside the heads of wild tigers to understand them better.

And at least a dozen tigers by trying to get inside their heads—a bite at a time.

"But they were not looking for better understanding," smiled Capt. Roman Proske wryly. "They were looking for a pinprick."

At 50, Proske, who operates America's only tiger farm, is undoubtedly the most tiger-chewed man alive. There is something about him that brings out the beast in the tigers.

He has been tamed by tigers for 20 years. He has been tamed by tigers for 20 years. He has been tamed by tigers for 20 years.

Variety of Weather Hits Arkansas

Little Rock, March 10. —(AP)—Wind, rain, snow, hop skipping temperatures and an isolated twister have been dumped on Arkansas in a freakish last-minute burst of winter.

Gusts of winds up to 50 miles an hour were reported in several sections of the state last night. Heavy snow fell in Northwest Arkansas.

A violent windstorm dipped into a small community near banks yesterday afternoon, just missing Warren, Ark., scene of a disastrous tornado Jan. 3. Several buildings were damaged in the twister but nobody was hurt.

The U. S. weather bureau at Little Rock said the windstorm preceded a cold front moving into the state.

Heavy rains covered most of Arkansas yesterday afternoon. Plummeting temperatures followed.

The weather bureau said the sun's rays have sent the Ouachita river to near flood stage at Arkadelphia today and reach 31 feet (five feet above flood stage) at Camden March 15th. The bureau said the Black river could crest at two feet above flood level at Black Rock tomorrow.

Supervision Over U. S. Lending, Asked

Washington, March 10. —(AP)—The treasury should have closer supervision over government lending, the Hoover commission said today.

It also told congress the department should operate more efficiently and avoid duplication of "political appointments," particularly those of internal revenue and customs collectors.

The government reorganization group headed by former President Herbert Hoover split 8 to 4 in recommending direct treasury supervision over two multi-billion dollar agencies: The Reconstruction Finance corporation, chiefly a lender to U. S. business concerns and the export-import bank, chiefly a lender to foreign governments.

"The president," said the majority report, "cannot give the time necessary for their supervision. Practically, they are accountable to nobody."

The treasury should again be made the real fiscal center of the government.

While there was discussion on the subject, the commission called unanimously for "thorough reorganization of the treasury to rid it of politics, 'obsolete organization and methods' and irrelevant functions."

Considerable savings can be accomplished by the reorganization of the treasury's field services, the commission said.

It added that such appointments are one of the chief handicaps to effective organization, and "are regarded by some as sinecures."

Fighting to Last the Legislature Adjourns

Little Rock, March 10. —(AP)—Battling right up to the final bill, the Arkansas House adjourned its 1949 session at noon today with still another filibuster in progress.

One of the numerous filibusters which began cropping up yesterday was broken up in the final hour and the house concurred in a senate amendment to a bill creating a new state claims commission, the only major item of business accomplished during the final day of the session.

When that action was completed with adjournment less than 30 minutes away, an effort was made to reconsider a bill, defeated yesterday, which would appropriate money for paying subsidies to medical students who would agree to practice in rural areas.

Rep. W. L. Ward of Lee county, veteran house member, won one of his stiffest fights as he blocked that action until the hour of final adjournment.

One filibuster started as the house began its final two hours of work.

It ended, however, with defeat of a bill to give the city of Hot Springs one-third of the breaks and odd-cents remaining after winning bets are figured at the Oaklawn Park track.

Rep. Claude Coffelt of Benton county took the floor to talk out the morning hour against the bill, but at the request of Speaker Carl Hendrix agreed to end his filibuster if "you'll all agree that no one else will talk and we'll take a roll call."

On roll call the bill was defeated 38-42. A motion to reconsider was rejected, 39-40.

Between four fights the speaker announced that Rep. W. J. Arnold had resigned from the legislature survey commission authorized under an act of the current legislature and that Rep. R. A. Lynch of Poinsett county had been appointed to succeed him.

The house passed a bill taxing wholesale liquor dealers which was amended by the senate to appropriate for 20 additional liquor investigators in the revenue department.

Would Turn Draft Over to Labor Dept.

Washington, March 10. —(AP)—The Hoover commission plans to recommend that the Selective Service system be turned into the labor department, it was learned today.

Persons familiar with the reorganization plans said privately that the commission also will propose that the United States Employment Service be restored to labor.

If those and other recommendations are not changed and Congress approves them, the now feeble labor department would gain much prestige, it was said.

Emergency, it would have the key responsibility for meeting military draft calls as well as recruiting and placing civilians in essential industry.

Former President Herbert Hoover, chairman of the commission reportedly agreed with a majority of his 11 colleagues that the labor department should be rebuilt. It was stripped almost to a skeleton by the Republican 80th congress.

There reportedly was at least one dissent to the proposed shift of the Selective service, but it was not filed by the Republican elder statesman.

The plan of selective service apparently won the commission's support on the ground that problems of military manpower should be coordinated with problems of the civilian labor supply.

Opposition is expected from some industry spokesmen, who might prefer that the problem of defense deficiencies in defense industries be handled by some other agency.

There is a possibility also of objections from the armed forces, which have enjoyed close relationship with the selective service in its independent status.

The commission is stepping clear of one reorganization battle. The fight over whether the two labor-management "umpire" agencies—the federal mediation service and national labor relations board—should be handed over to the labor department for "housekeeping" purposes.

Registered Jersey Bull Sold to Glen D. Eley, McCaskill

Columbus, Ohio, March 11. —(AP)—Glen D. Eley of McCaskill, Ark., has purchased the registered Jersey bull Pride Sam Watson. The animal comes from the herd owned by Ray Thompson, Nashville, Tenn.

The purchase adds to the steadily growing number in this area. Dairyman buy Jerseys because of the high quality of the milk they produce.

Purebred Jerseys are registered by The American Jersey Cattle Club which has its national headquarters in Columbus, Ohio. Several programs are available through The American Jersey Cattle Club to help breeders get the most profit from their Jerseys.

Home of Farm Family Burns on Prescott 5

The home of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Harden, Prescott Route Three, burned last week-end. The blaze is believed to have originated from a stove. The Hardens carried no insurance and very little furniture was saved. Neighbors have helped by contributing to partly compensate for the loss.

Senate Favors One House Legislation

Little Rock, March 10. —(AP)—A strong resolution proposing the establishment of a unicameral — one house legislature in Arkansas was approved by the senate today. The action came shortly before final adjournment of the 1949 legislature.

The senate ended its session at 12:02 p. m.

Sen. Ernest Maner of Benton, author of the resolution, said, "The senate took no pride in having unvarnished truth is, we want to abolish the house of representatives."

Maner has been the subject of considerable criticism in the house following a speech in which he told the senate he took no pride in having unvarnished truth is, we want

Reports Fight on Palestine Border

London, March 9 — (UP) — Trans-Jordan reported today that fighting had broken out anew in Palestine, where an uncertain truce has prevailed since early this year, with an Israeli force driving toward the border town of Araba where British troops are stationed.

Receipt of word from Amman of the flareup in Palestine. King Abdullah's government handed the report to the British minister at Amman, Sir A. Krikbride.

The scope of the hostilities was obscure on the basis of the first report. But it said Israeli and Trans-Jordan forces had exchanged gunfire, and that the Israeli unit was "fighting" its way toward Aquaba.

The report from Trans-Jordan said the Israeli troops were "in some strength" when they clashed with Trans-Jordan forces at an undisclosed point in the Negev.

Aquaba is a strategic Red sea port at the head of the gulf of the same name. It lies in the southwestern corner of Trans-Jordan.

across the frontier from the southernmost tip of Palestine, and only a few miles from the Sinai peninsula of Egypt.

Britain sent a force of undisclosed strength to Aquaba early in the year when the British were drawn into bloody fighting then going on in the border area of Palestine and Egypt. Five British planes scouting the frontier position.

In one southern town, there are two churches across the street from each other. "Couldn't those churches be combined?" a visitor asked.

"Not very well," was the reply. "That church over there says, 'There ain't no hell,' and this one says, 'The hell there ain't.'" headed toward Cumberland, 60 miles away.

The signal cord on the train was pulled and the ambassador stopped. All witnesses agreed that the robbers forced it to back up a considerable distance to what is known as Warm Springs crossing. In the few hectic minutes which followed, the crewmen and passengers were cowed and relieved of what money they had.

The B. and O. had reports of $767 taken from coach passengers, along with a $100 ring and an $85 watch. The crew lost $126. Ten Pullman passengers also were robbed but there was no estimate of their losses.

After threatening and injuring some of the people, two men left the train and commanded an automobile which had been halted at the crossing by the train.

Charles H. O'Roke and his wife were in the car. He told police he was beaten painfully when he protested against the men pulling his wife from the automobile.

The O'Roke automobile was driven away but soon after was found abandoned.

Still later police discovered an automobile taken from in front of the tavern looted soon after the train robbery.

Dr. John J. Prendergast of Detroit, medical director for the Chrysler corporation, ducked gunfire to help the injured. Besides Epps and the Davis woman he listed these he treated.

Mrs. Ida Starrett of Charlevoix, Mich., shock.

John Hook of Martinsburg, dining car employee whose knee was twisted while trying to dodge gunfire in the dining car.

Alice Miller of Hagerstown, Md., slight head injury when slapped by a robber.

R. L. Hosmer of Relay, Md., near Baltimore, train conductor, hit by gun and hurt on left side of head.

DOROTHY DIX Doormat Wife

Dear Dorothy Dix: What are the duties of a wife? I have been married for 20 years to a man who insists that it is the duty of a wife to be a slave to him; to prepare his food and serve it piping hot, no matter how late he comes home nights; to take care of his clothes and have them always fresh and pressed; to wait on him hand and foot, even to taking the car to the garage and parking it, instead of his putting it up himself. For all this service I get neither thanks nor pay, and I am tired of it and am going to stage a reform, but before I do I would like to know just what are the duties of a wife.

Answer: The duties of a wife are too numerous to catalogue, but mainly they consist in a woman being a true and faithful wife and making her husband a happy home. But certainly they do not include letting her husband make a servant of her.

Marriage is a partnership, not a monopoly, and husbands and wives should share equally in its joys and sorrows, its work and pleasures. It is the husband's duty to bring home the bacon and the wife's to cook it.

Pitiful Figure
The doormat wife is a pitiful figure, but when all is said she is to blame for her sad lot, for no husband can trample on his wife if she resists. Every wife who demands fair treatment from her husband gets it. Every wife writes her own price tag with her husband.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My daughter is date-crazy. She is married to a nice man. She has a good home and time and money on baby-sitters and fine clothes and having affairs with strange men. What will cure her of this fault?

MRS. H.

Answer: Disgrace and ruin are the bitter medicine that it will take to cure your daughter of having affairs with strange men. She craves forbidden fruit instead of the bread and butter of domestic life. It flatters her vanity to be able to pick up men on the street, and she is silly enough and vain enough to think that she can dance without ever having to pay for the piper. Such a woman is never cured of her folly until her patient husband revolts and drags her into the divorce courts and her home is broken up and her children taken from her. Then it is too late.

Dear Miss Dix: I am a girl of 17 who is having parent trouble. I have been going out with boys since I was 15 and now I have met someone whom I like very much, but my father refuses to let me go out alone with him because he is 21 years old. So I can't go anywhere unless my mother tags along, and it isn't any fun for me to have my mother along on all my dates. What can I do?

boys ever since you were 15. I should think you would be sufficiently acquainted with the species to know how to handle them. Anyway, it seems to me that your father makes a mistake when he objects to a lad for no other reason than that he is 21 years old. I think a boy of that age is more to be trusted than one who is in his teens, because the older boy is more mature, has seen more of life and feels more responsible than the kid does.

Of course, it is the duty of fathers and mothers to watch over their little daughters and try to protect them, but they don't do it by hanging the family around their girls' necks and setting the little brothers and sisters to spy on them when they even go to the movies. All

Five Elderly Women Drown in Florida

Venice, Fla., March 10 —(UP)—Five elderly women, drowned yesterday when their automobile tumbled off the highway into Shallick creek near here, were tentatively identified today as members of the same family.

The Florida Highway patrol listed the women as: Mrs. Mabel Frink, about 80, and Mrs. Bertha E. Sawyer, about 51, both of Silver Lodge, Pompton Lakes, N. J.; Mrs. Stella H. Scott, about 67, Little Rock, Ark.; and Mrs. May F. Currier, about 80, and Mrs. Julia Mae Stevens, 49, both of Tarpon Springs, Fla.

Mrs. Frink, Mrs. Scott and Mrs. Currier were believed to be sisters. Mrs. Stevens was believed a daughter of Mrs. Currier, and Mrs. Sawyer was believed a daughter of Mrs. Frink.

Identifications were made on basis of telephone calls to Tarpon Springs, patrolmen said.

The accident occurred when the women's car, bearing New Jersey license plates, stopped abruptly to avoid hitting another automobile. An oncoming truck, driven by Robert W. Gentle, 27, of Huntsville, Ala., bumped the car and sent it crashing into the creek.

Gentle was released last night by police.

POP Goes the QUEEN

By Bob Wade and Bill Miller

© by Bob Wade and Bill Miller
Distributed by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: John Henry and Sin Conover, in an attempt to solve the murders at the resort where they are vacationing, waylay Mr. Trim, suspecting him to be the killer. After Trim is knocked out, they find a badge in his wallet on which is inscribed "Federal Bureau of Investigation."

Trim sat on the edge of the car seat and stared down at him. After a while of consideration, he went on. "I'll tell you what I can, but you two have to be frank right back at me. In answer to your question: only incidentally. There's some tie-up there with Sagmon Robertson and —"

"What's he done?" cried Sin.

"Nothing yet — that we can prove. He just keeps popping up as they could be.

"Tide" is patented — it's the first and only product of its kind. It washes even the grimest, grimest clothes such as overalls and heavy work shirts. Yet it still remains truly safe for washable colors. In fact, it actually perks up soap-faded colors. That's because "Tide" leaves clothes free, not only from dirt, but from dulling, dingy soap film as well. By leaving no film itself and by washing away film left by former washings, "Tide" gets clothes amazingly cleaner.

Women everywhere agree that "Tide" is truly a washday miracle.

in key positions. A professional organization one place — a crack pot discussion group — somewhere else. The L. A. — that's Robertson's home town — thinks there's something off-key about him.

"Off-key?"

"Subversive. Undercover."

"Gosh," said Sin, awed. "If I'd known that, I'd really been scared this morning."

Trim pursed his lips irritably at the interruption. "Nothing had come of my work when I ran across this lost treasure business. Okay — that's not by jurisdiction — finger-keepers and so forth. The two murderers want my jurisdiction, either. Just a minute!" He held up a small hand to cut off the Conovers' questions. "I do come into it side-ways. If Barselou finds the Queen the money's his. But the government is interested if he's going to back Robertson in some subversive activity with that money."

John Henry began to pace back and forth, plucking thoughtfully at his lower lip. "Then Robertson could be Jones?"

"Oh, he could be," admitted Trim. "The two dead bodies belong to Lieutenant Lay and me. I'm here to catch a subversion case. All I know about your Jones or Joneses is that a Barselou employee — Anglin — sent a wire to them yesterday morning telling him to meet him at the Las Dunas Hotel." He started to slide under the steering wheel. "I'm sorry, I won't be able to run you back, but from what you've told me, I better get a move on."

Sin looked at the agent quizzically. "What are you going to do now, Mr. Trim? Or is it a secret?"

"Well —" Trim squinted at the moon-painted mesquite. "I'm going out and wait for Barselou at his ranch. Now that you've run this fall-guy rumor to earth for me, I might as well warn him about registry and tax and some other details. Then it'll be his move if he wants to play with Robertson."

"Mr. Trim," said Sin earnestly, "look — wouldn't you like to follow Barselou and Jones and Robertson or whoever it is to the Queen? That way you could —"

"Why are you talking about Sin?" John Henry interrupted. "I thought you were going to wait."

"I have his points," Trim mused. "I might find out pretty definitely about the subversion angle. It would certainly catch Robertson off base." He laughed harshly. "But unfortunately, Mrs. Conover — I don't know the way. All I can do is wait at the ranch for one or both of them to come back."

"That's it exactly," said Sin, frowning up and down with excitement.

"Sin talk sense," John Henry insisted angrily. "Johnny, don't you see? We know where to start. Walking Skull."

"Never mind," said Trim quietly. "I know where it is. Let her talk."

"And we've got a third copy of the combination — me." Sin pointed, proud forehead at herself.

John Henry was disgusted. "Don't be silly. You've said it once. Now it's gone. Why should that list of numbers stick with you?"

"Because," Sin explained slowly and deliberately, "they don't make sense!"

"She hasn't had much to eat," her husband said to Trim.

"No Johnny! Just to prove it, here's the first two directions. R dash one. L dash three." Her words tumbled over one another, getting out of her mouth. "I know I can remember it. Johnny, I just isn't a silly old quotation or anything — it doesn't have any order and I can't remember it perfectly. I knew it when I recited it for you back at the ranch, but I didn't want to tell you for fear it would spoil things or you'd want to go after the Queen by yourself later on. But now we've got help. And Johnny, honest — I can't get the darn thing out my head!"

"I'd be too dangerous for you, Sin. I don't want you —"

She put her arms around him. "I don't want to go to jail and I don't want you to, either. This way we

Husband Slays Wife, Man and Kills Self

New York, March 10 — Two men and a woman died in a blast of gunfire last night while a mother, 4,000 miles away listened by telephone to her daughter's dying screams for mercy.

Police said Emory Holt, 32, apparently suspicious of a love triangle, called his wife's mother in Hollywood, and said:

"I am sorry for what I am going to do."

With the telephone circuit still open, police said, he shot his attractive, brunette wife, Norma, 34, won't have to, honey. Because Jones will be at the Queen."

John Henry felt the tempting excitement begin to bubble inside him again. "I wouldn't mind running into the guy responsible for all this, all that. I feel I owe him something."

Triumphantly, Sin turned to the wizened agent in the sedan. "There, Now how about it, Mr. Trim? What do you say?"

Trim didn't say anything for a moment. He opened the glove compartment and took out a heavy service automatic. Leaning back in the car, he checked the magazine under the dashlight. Why he came into view again, he shoved the gun at John Henry butt foremost.

He said, "Stick close to your wife then, and come along. This may be the bag of the year or it may be a wild-goose chase. I guarantee it won't be any picnic."

and David Whittaker 32 an executive in the firm where she worked then killed himself.

It was a call from the panic-stricken mother, Mrs. Elsie Thomas, that led police to the scene of the triple-shooting in Whitaker's 15th-floor apartment in London Terrace, a huge apartment house.

Mrs. Thomas left Hollywood by plane for New York shortly after the shooting.

Neighbors at her Hollywood home said she told them she had pleaded with Holt not to carry out his threats, but he replied, "It's too late, mama."

Police said Mrs. Thomas heard her daughter crying and pleading with Holt for mercy, then screams and a series of shots. Silence followed.

Mrs. Holt's body was found on a couch. She was shot in the chest and behind the left ear.

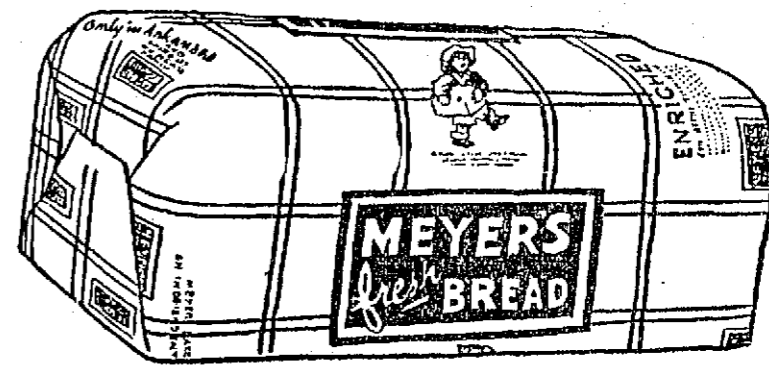

Beside her was Whittaker. He had been shot in the left forearm, right temple and left side.

Holt's body was collapsed over a chair, a bullet hole through his heart. An automatic pistol still was grasped in his left hand, police said.

A medical examiner listed the case as a double murder and suicide.

Color blindness may be either acquired or congenital.

Mitchum Elected 'Cement Block' by Cellmates

Los Angeles, March 10—(UPI)—Robert Mitchum says he has been elected Mr. Cement Block of 1949 by fellow prisoners at a Los Angeles county prison. He is serving a 60-day term there for conspiring to possess marijuana.

The hulking, broad-shouldered bobby sox idol appeared here yesterday as a prospective witness in the trial of dancer Vicki Evans, who was arrested with Mitchum and two others on marijuana charges last Sept. 1.

The $3250-a-week actor, who still has better than three weeks of his sentence to go, was asked how things were going with him at the prison. He replied: "I'm making bricks. March around. It's all right."

Asked how he liked this occupation, he remarked, without enthusiasm, "making bricks is making bricks." He said he was getting along so well with the other prisoners that they voted him Mr. Cement Block for 1949.

Asked if he had any comment about the prison farm brought forth this reply: "Yeah, it's an experience every taxpayer should go through."

The Yellow Sea is so called because much of it is colored by the yellow earth carried into it by the Yangtze River.
